Opportunity Summary
This FOA invites investigators from outside the International IBD Genetics Consortium (IBDGC) to establish collaborations with the IBDGC to exploit more fully the great wealth of well-characterized patients, biological samples, and data already amassed by the IBDGC to elucidate the mechanisms by which IBD susceptibility genetic variants influence the pathophysiology of IBD. Investigators from a wide range of disciplines with possible relevance to IBD (e.g., immunology, cell biology, microbiology, bioinformatics, systems biology) are encouraged to respond to this FOA, which is specifically intended to support exploratory research which may require development and testing of novel experimental platforms or analytic methods.

Eligibility & Requirements:
• Individuals receiving salary from any cooperative agreement awarded under RFA-DK-16-029 are not eligible to serve as PDs/PIs although they may serve as Senior/Key Personnel or Other Significant Contributors.
• Applications must include a letter from the Chair or Vice-Chair of the Steering Committee of the IBDGC indicating that the IBDGC is willing to provide the ancillary study investigators with access to participants, samples and data, as needed.
• Applications must not duplicate studies already completed or ongoing within the IBDGC.

Internal Nomination Process:
Interested applicants should submit the following documents:
1. JHU Limited Submission Cover Sheet
2. Proposal (maximum of two pages of text only, single spaced: 12-pt font and one-inch margins) (Note: figures, tables, and other reference material may be included in addition to the 2 pg. text limit)
3. Curriculum Vitae of investigator, including current external research support and publications
4. Budget (two pages maximum)
