Opportunity Summary:
The Pew Scholars Program in the Biomedical Sciences supports the independent research conducted by young investigators of outstanding promise in sciences relevant to the advancement of human health. The Pew Charitable Trusts especially encourages proposals that are creative, innovative, and risk-taking. Based on their performance during their education and training, candidates should demonstrate outstanding promise as contributors in science relevant to human health. Strong proposals will incorporate particularly creative and innovative approaches.

Eligibility & Requirements:
• Candidates must have been awarded a doctorate in biomedical sciences, medicine or a related field.
• As of Oct. 15, 2018, nominees must hold full-time appointments at the rank of assistant professor.
  (Appointments such as Research Assistant Professor, Adjunct Assistant Professor, Assistant Professor Research Track, Visiting Professor or Instructor are not eligible.)
• On June 29, 2018, candidates must have been in such an appointment for less than three years (not appointed before June 29, 2015), whether or not such an appointment was on a tenure track. Time spent in clinical internships, residencies, or in work toward board certification does not count as part of this three-year limit.
• Candidates may be nominated by their institution two times in total.

Internal Nomination Process:
Interested applicants should submit the following documents:

1. JHU Limited Submission Cover Sheet
• Abstract (one page, double-spaced)
• Proposal (maximum of four pages of text only, single spaced: 12-pt font and one-inch margins)
  Note: figures, tables, and other reference material may be included in addition to the 4 pg. text limit
• Curriculum Vitae of investigator, including current external research support and publications
• Budget (two pages maximum)
• Letter of Recommendation from the Department Chair/Director. Letters of Recommendation can be submitted separately to resapp@jhu.edu stating the applicant’s name in the subject line.
