Geraldine Dietz Fox Young Investigator Research Award

Hearing and Vestibular Research

This is a call for applications for the Geraldine Dietz Fox Young Investigator Research Award provided by the Department of Otolaryngology Head and Neck Surgery at Johns Hopkins. The award consists of $20,000.00 to be used for the proposed research project in the field of Hearing and Balance.

Who can apply:

Researchers at the Johns Hopkins University. Candidates should have a graduate degree (PhD, MD or equivalent), show accomplishment and promise in hearing or vestibular research, and are no more than 3 years beyond residency or postdoctoral training.

Postdoctoral Fellows are encouraged to apply.

Format of application:

Please provide your CV, 2 letters of support, the research proposal. The 4-6 page proposal should consist of an abstract (200 words); Significance, Innovation, Research Plan describing Aims, and a short Reference List.

Application Deadline:

March 17; Funds will be provided by June 1st. Submit materials to Sandra Cryder; scryder1@jhmi.edu

Review:

Review Committee: Dr. Glowatzki, Chair, and faculty of the Center for Hearing and Balance.